THE J. E. JONES LETTER

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS

Less than four years ago Robert M. LaFollette was the Progressive candidate for President. In an attempt to keep the organization together, which was rather strong at that time, the present-day Progressives are talking seriously about their choice for the presidency. Senator George W. Norris is their leader. A good deal of joy is being expressed because Senator Norris is likely to support him.

While the business looks serious still no one should mistake it as more than a political gesture made to keep certain forces together in Congress. The Progressives have considerable advantage because they are often in position to wield the balance of power, and in consequence force through a lot of legislation that would otherwise be out of their reach.

ALTRUISTIC POLITICS

Clem Shaver, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, came down to Washington from his West Virginia home to settle the controversies in his party. His plan is described as very simple. He would have the Democrats ignore religious issues, and say nothing about anything that is either too dry or too wet—"just like that!" Love will abound and Alfonso and Gaston will run the next Democratic convention.

Then Mr. Shaver returned to West Virginia.

SEVERAL CHOOSE TO RUN

There are lots of hats in the G. O. P. ring, but the cartoonist who showed the political leaders searching for the one that was not there gave his readers an eye-ful. And while all the pins are being set up Mr. Coolidge is enjoying life at the White House where he is constantly being assured that he is a wonderful success. The manner of conversation concerning Mr. Coolidge has changed a great deal since he made his Black Hills declaration.

NICK WHERE ART THOU?

Out in Cincinnati Nicholas Longworth has been elected to Congress ever since the town began to grow up. The House of Representatives chose him for Speaker because of his engaging personality and his unusual abilities. Cincinnati and Washington regard Mr. Longworth as a statesman.

That does not seem to have any effect upon the presidential situation and this favorite of two cities doesn't seem to kick up a thrill even in his own State of Ohio.

HANNA'S DAUGHTER

Hanna raised a remarkable daughter. Meaning of course, Mark Hanna. As the wife of Senator Medill McCormick she and her rhum, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, have pulled a great many hot chestnuts out of the political fire. Now Mrs. McCormick seeks to comb to Washington in the official capacity of Congressman for Congresswoman at large from the great State of Illinois.

She talks a good deal like her dad, but it remains to be seen whether she can make the people vote in the same way as they did in the days when her famous father cracked the whip.

MR. FALL RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

A broken spirited old man has returned to the scene of his former triumphs and glories, and a new one on foot on a criminal charge in one of the most famous of American courts. Two of the judges of the United States Supreme Court in recent cases that involved Fall's relations with John D. and Sinclair found that Fall was guilty, and in consequence the former became a man in the law.

oil men and the former Secretary of the Interior were declared illegal and set aside. There seems to be no doubt but what Fall has suffered more punishment than any other man in high public life within the present generation. In consequence sympathy has laid her heavy hand on the scales of justice.

FIGHT FILMS

A lot of people are wasting valuable breath arguing that the fight films should be produced, and distributed through interstate traffic because the newspapers and the radio carried printed and spoken accounts of the fistfights. The United States Supreme Court has said that this class of films cannot be transported in interstate commerce—and that settles the matter, except for those who disobey his court, and take the chances of going to jail.

WHAT WILL THE TAXES BE?

Senator Reed Smoot, the man who knows, figures out that a tax bill can be put through that will give a reduction of about $350,000,000 to the taxpayers. Evidently this is a conservative estimate. Mr. Smoot doesn't make anything except conservative political and public documents and predictions. Therefore inasmuch as he has made it three-fifths, large and small tax payers might just as well begin to calculate their profits.

"WHAT PRICE BEAUTY?"

Can you imagine the conservative Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor putting out such a newspaper release under the above heading? It is such a peppy thing that it deserves extra quotation marks. Who says the Government is not human!

The item itself estimates that American women spend approximately $1,225,000,000 a year on cosmetics and beauty care. The beauty trade is "unstandardized" and therefore the Women's Bureau gives its support to proposals to check up on the ways and means by which the profession of beauty doctors serve the public. Likely the attention of the Bureau has been attracted to some big damage suits that are now before the courts, and which resulted from women losing their hair, and beauty, when amateurs tried to make their patients look pretty.

WHAT BRAND APPLES?

There are 304 varieties of apples grown in the United States, according to a Government authority. Notwithstanding all this opportunity to select different kinds of apples only eight are popular with the apple eating public. A study of the "apple-wise" in New York City showed that the consumers select apples that "look good" and pay practically no attention to taste and brand names. The Jews of New York are found to be the most selective in apple buying, and 56 per cent of the Jewish families making purchases of apples buy them because of their brand, and not on account of their shape and color.

"Yes, Willard Mack is right, Luckies are best," says Paul Berlenbach

Popular pugilist tells his manager, Benedict Sterns, that Lucky Strikes are the finest cigarettes.

Willard Mack,
Noted Author, Producer and Actor,
writes:

"We people of the theatre are, as a rule, extremists. This is the reflex action from overworked nerves. When a man smokes forty cigarettes a day, as I do, he must be sure of his brand. I make Lucky Strikes because I have found they are soothing to the nerves and at the same time they cause no throat irritation. My voice is always in perfect condition and I am never troubled by any coughing which might be annoying to me in my work as an actor."

National Forest Timber For Sale.

Sealed bids will be received by the Forest Supervisor, Lenoir, N. H., up to and including November 3, 1927, for all the merchantable dead timber standing or down, and all the live timber marked or designated for cutting on an area of about 62 acres on the watershed of Upper Brook, Compartment 2, Wild River Working Circle, Town of Northboro, White Mountain National Forest, Coos County, New Hampshire, estimated to be 320 cords of white birch and 22 cords of white maple. No bid of less than $1.00 per cord for the white birch, and 60¢ per cord for the white maple, will be considered, and in addition the successful bidder will be required to deposit $0.15 per cord for all timber cut, to be paid by the Forest Service in making silvicultural improvements on the sale area. Bids must be deposited with each bid, to be applied on purchase price, refunded, or retained in part as liquidated damages, according to conditions of sale. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. Before bids are submitted, full information concerning the timber, the conditions of sale, and a map of the area, should be obtained from the Forest Supervisor, White Mountain National Forest Lenoir, N. H.

MAINE POTATO PROSPECTS DECLINE 7.5% DURING SEPTEMBER

On the basis of conditions October 1 the Maine potato crop is forecast at 32,055,000 bushels compared with 36,830,000 bushels harvested last year and 34,572,000 bushels the five year average. The full effect upon yields of the severe attack of late blight during August and early September is now being felt. In Aroostook county blight effectively stopped the growth of the crop although comparatively little rot has followed the blight damage. Most of the Green Mountains will be of excellent quality. The outlook for New England is 10.1 per cent less than expected a month ago, 15.1 per cent below last year and 13.1 per cent below average. Potato yields in New England vary from complete failure to 40 bushels per acre depending upon local conditions.

The Maine commercial apple crop is forecast at 451,000 harvested last year with 15,000 barrels harvested last year and 493,000 the five year average. Scab has been prevalent as well as other insects and diseases. High quality apples are unusually scarce and should command good prices. For New England the commercial apple crop is forecast at 1,188,000 barrels, 31 per cent less than harvested last year and about 15 per cent below average.

September weather was unusually favorable for corn in Maine as well as elsewhere in New England. The yield of oats in Maine is practically equal to last year and average. Yields of hay are above average although much of the crop is poor in quality. Maine pastures at 90 per cent on October 1 are the best for the date since 1922.

The United States potato crop is estimated at 394,757,000 bushels on October 1 compared with 329,708,000 bushels expected a month ago, 356,321,000 bushels harvested last year and 394,157,000 bushels the five year average. Blight and rot have caused losses from Pennsylvania to Maine while Michigan and Wisconsin the crop has been reduced by drought.

Apple prospects show little change. The crop in most states is only one-half to two-thirds of last year's harvest. Commercial apple production in the United States is forecast at 21,330,000 barrels on October 1 compared with 22,411,000 barrels harvested last year and 23,710,000 barrels the five year average 1922-1926.

The outlook for corn in the United States improved 6 per cent during September. Damage from frost was high. Production on October 1 is forecast at 2,001 million bushels compared with 2,007 million bushels harvested last year and 2,067 million the five year average. Wheat for the country is forecast at 11 per cent greater than last year's harvest and 2.4 per cent greater than the five year average. The crop has been on a favorable basis throughout the fall and month.

Estimated production of oats in the United States is about 35 per cent less than last year's harvest and 11 per cent lower than the five year average. Barley and buckwheat are also lower. The hay crop for the United States is the largest in history.
